To whom it concerns,

I wish to stress the importance of the control of crows, rooks and jackdaws. Every year I see them destroy many song birds eggs in my trees/hedges, they themselves have a very successful hatch. I believe they should continue to be controlled through shooting or trapping.

Also in my own personal circumstances and likewise for many others they pose a real serious risk to my young family playing outside as due to the size of their nesting area and volume of "waste", these birds need to be controlled or even culled.

Thanks
Regards
