

Sent: Monday 21 February 2022 23:16
To: Housing WildBirdDeclarations

Follow Up Flag: Follow up
Flag Status: Completed

On a personal note I don't like the way magpies, crow, rook hunt the hedges along my house targeting song birds. These birds are an evasive species, but we suffer them. They not only use their killing machines, one will hunt the hedge, drawing the song birds out, while the partner raids the nest. Take that to predation on game birds, pheasant, grouse etc etc.